In the wake of the World War I, while the war was not even suspected yet, a schoolmistress Nada and a Serbian officer Relja took to each other. They fell in love indeed and made a commitment to each other. It was the love widely talked about attracting the attention of all the inhabitants of Vrnjci Spa. But the war did break out with all the horrors it entails. A Serbian officer Relja goes to the front in Greece. He goes away never to return, because of the beautiful Greek woman he has fallen in love with and therefore breaks up the engagement with Nada. The legend says nothing about his further destiny, whereas every citizen of Vrnjačka Spa is familiar with Nada's destiny. Owing to overwhelming sorrow she fades away day after day and finally dies, young and miserable.
